

Ayahuasca ceremony agreement:

Ayahuasca is a drink made from a combination of substances (amongst others DMT¹) Ayahuasca is not yet legal or illegal under Israeli law. Because of this legal status we wish to inform everyone participating in this ceremony of important safety precautions:

Ingredients:

Ayahuasca consists of two main ingredients, Dimethyltryptamine (DMT) a psychoactive substance, and Harmines/Harmalines (MAOI's) which have an effect on the way the human body digests DMT. Mono-amine oxydase inhibitors increase the activity of the hallucinogen DMT, by preventing its digestion by enzymes. In the combinations that we use for this ceremony they have no lasting neurological effects. These enzymes are in the body for an important reason, since they break down other substances that can be harmful to the body, so please read the following section carefully.

The materials that we use are derived from natural plant substances, prepared according to traditional Native-Amazonian recipes. In the case of Jurema, the source material is the root bark of the Mimosa Hostilis (containing DMT) in conjunction with the seeds of Peganum Harmala (an MAO inhibitor) In the case of Ayahuasca we work with the Amazonian plant Banisteriopsis Caapi (MAOI's) and the leaves of Psychotria Viriidis (DMT). No chemical or synthetic substance is ever added to purify, filter or extract any substance that we use. There is ample information on these substances and the plants from which they are derived on the internet and we recommend the Erowid psychoactive vaults for more information. MAOI's have a subtle effect on the mind (on their own they do not produce visual effects) but they affect Serotonin levels that alter consciousness.

Dietary conditions:

MAOI's may be dangerous in combination with the following substances so we recommend abstention from the following substances for three days prior, and three days after a ritual involving Ayahuasca or Ayahuasca analogues:

- Alcohol in any form
- Blue cheeses or any fermented substances containing moulds (beer)
- Drugs such as Ecstasy, MDMA, 2CB, Cocaine, Heroine, Amphetamines, Methadone, etc.
- Medication such as Anti-Biotics or Anti-Depressants and Anti-Psychotics

Health warning:

You are expressly forbidden to participate if there is any illness, physical or mental, or if you take any medication. If you do consult with the organisers of the Ayahuasca ceremony. If in doubt we recommend you abstain (this does not apply to headaches common colds and menstrual cramps) Please keep in mind that Ayahuasca remains active for a short while after the ceremony has been closed, we recommend that you stay the night and sleeping accomodation will be available, so that you do not have to drive, or make your way home alone.

The ceremony in which you are about to participate is believed to have a powerful therapeutic effect, and it is possible to have a strong reaction to the substances that we use. We regard Ayahuasca as a catalyst for this reaction, not as its cause. Ayahuasca catalyses psychic and physical material from our own biography and memories. For this reason its effect is unpredictable: some people will have ecstatic experiences while others may have frightening or emotional experiences, and these effects may vary from ritual to ritual. Frightening or painful experiences are considered to be a part of the therapeutic effect, as traumatic material from the subconscious is revealed. Each participant must be aware of this possibility. The Ayahuasca ceremony offers a safe environment with lots of support (setting) in which emotions may be expressed freely, and participants receive and give each other support. In order to protect both organisers and participants we wish to emphasize this agreement between organisers and participants:

Statement of intent:

I am participating voluntarily and of my own free will, in this ritual, in which Ayahuasca (a known psychoactive substance) is used. I have read this agreement, and agree to its terms. I release the organisers from any responsibility for mental or physical damage to my person following the use of the substances described above, or resulting from my participation in the ceremony. I am fully responsible for the consequences of my participation, before, during and after the ceremony. I am acquainted with the guidelines for behaviour, that have been explained to me personally, prior to signing this agreement. For the duration of the ceremony I shall follow instructions given to me for my safety and the safe, respectful conduct of the ceremony. In order to leave the ceremony before its termination I shall obtain a signed copy of this agreement from the organisers. I shall remain inside the ceremonial space, until such time as written consent is given for my departure.² I participate voluntarily without pressure from anyone. I understand that my payment is towards the cost of the organisation of the ceremony itself, and not for the provision of any substance.³
